IMPROVED

ALTHOUSE VANELESS WIND-MILL.

Its chief points of merit are: Its ability to take care of itself in the severest gale—being so arranged that no increase of wind increases its speed. The material used in its construction and the quality of workmanship being the best. The simplicity of its machinery making it almost impossible to get out of order, therefore, when once erected no further expense is attached to it. The ease with which it runs—starting at the least perceptible breeze, and never stopping unless the wind ceases to blow. It is an ornament to any place, running smoothly without noise. It has been improved from year to year until it is superior in all points of excellence.

HAND ROTARY FORCE PUMP.

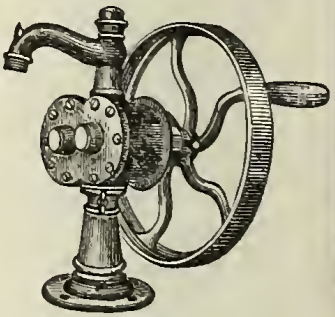

FIG. 297½.

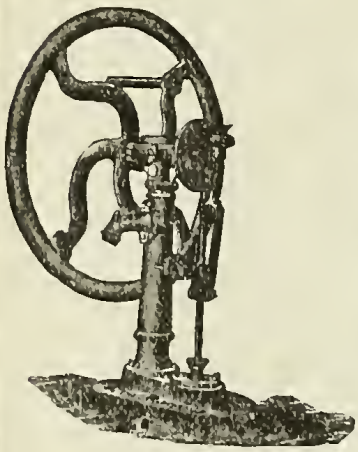
Fig. 297½ represents one of our celebrated Hand Rotary Force Pumps. They will pump from a well the same as any ordinary pump, and will pump hot or cold water, wine or liquor. You are capable of pumping a much larger quantity of water than with any other style of pump.

DEEP WELL FORCE PUMP

STANDARD.



Is a new device for elevating water from deep wells, either by hand or power. When used by hand a large fly-wheel is attached as shown in the cut; for power, pulley can be put on to be run by belt. The water passes upward through the column and is discharged from the spout. A flange can be attached in place of the spout when desired to convey the water to any distance from an elevation above the pump.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue containing full description and prices of our 150 different styles and varieties of Pumps for Hand, Wind-Mill Power, and Steam use. Rotary Hand and Power Pumps, Wine Pumps, Spraying Pumps, Boiler Feed Pumps, Hydraulic Rams, Brass Goods, Pipe, Pipe Fittings, Hose, Lawn Mowers, Garden Tools, Oil Stoves, etc.

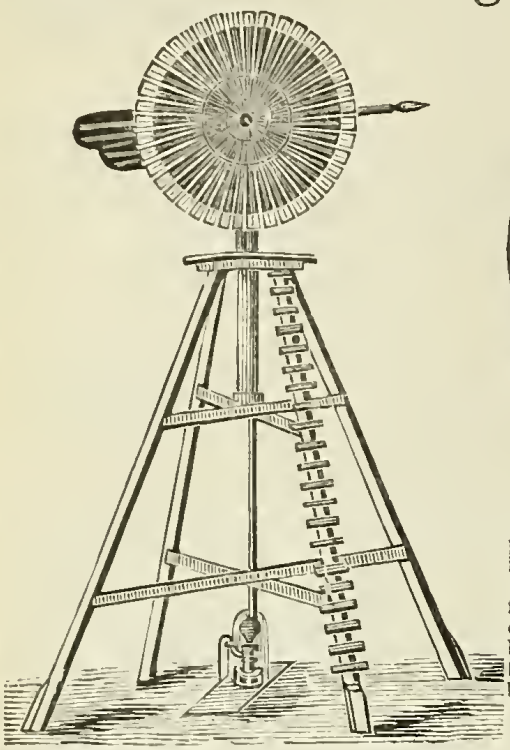
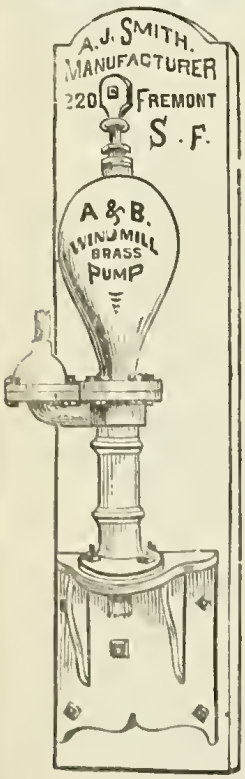
Excelsior Self-Regulating Windmill.



It is the BEST for eight reasons: First—It is a positive self-regulator. Second—It has less working parts. Third—It is direct acting. Fourth—It has less joints. Fifth—It has less points of friction. Sixth—It has less points to oil. Seventh.—It requires less attention. Eighth and last, but not least—It is offered to the public at as low a price as many of the inferior mills now being sold in this market.



THE EXCELSIOR WINDMILL was awarded the first or cash premium at the California State Agricultural Fair in 1872, the only time ever exhibited there, and it has received a larger number of premiums at the Mechanics' Institute Fairs in San Francisco than any other windmill ever exhibited there.

The EXCELSIOR is manufactured at EXCELSIOR WINDMILL AND PUMP WORKS, 211 Mission Street, San Francisco. H. H. BODWELL, proprietor. N. B.—All my work is fully guaranteed. I also manufacture a ROSETTE WHEEL, from 10 to 16 feet in diameter. This mill is self-regulating, and is a good, substantial mill, and is offered to the public at fully 15 per cent. less than any mill sold in this market.

Send for Price List, or if in town call and see me and examine my work, and I will suit you in price and quality, for I am going to sell to the consumer at the lowest price possible.

☞ EVERY MILL FULLY GUARANTEED.

ATWOOD & BODWELL'S

Windmill Brass Pumps.

These Pumps were designed especially for windmill work. They are superior to any pump of Eastern make, both in weight, strength, and inside finish.

They are constructed in the simplest form of a lift and force pump, and are not liable to get out of order.

PREFACE.

In offering this the third directory, covering the territory embraced herein, the publishers are only giving another proof of the interest and business inquiry, which is continually growing larger, in the development, business facilities, and opportunities for settlement to be found in this section of the State. Our last issue has been entirely taken up over a year since, and the large and continual demands for another and later issue is our justification for this.

Considerable difficulties have been met with in the way of securing satisfactory and complete information, occasioning some little delay in our publication beyond what was at first anticipated. This will, we trust, be pardoned by our patrons in view of the more perfect character of the work given them.

Changes that have occurred since the original canvass have been kept pace with, as far as possible, and the publishers send out this issue in the full belief that it is a complete presentation of the present composition of the territory covered.

Attention is called to the San Francisco and Sacramento Business Departments appended to the work as a comprehensive list of the enterprising merchants of these cities respectively, eminently worthy of patronage in their various lines.

In thanking the patrons and promoters of our work for their favors, we only have to say that their reward will, we believe, be found in the value of the work to them.

HUMBOLDT COUNTY.

THIS county is situated in the northwestern part of the State, there being but one county, Del Norte, intervening between Humboldt and the State of Oregon. It is bounded on the north by Del Norte and Siskiyou Counties, on the east by Trinity, on the south by Mendocino, and on the west by the Pacific Ocean. In its measurement from north to south it covers nearly two parallels of latitude, its southern boundary being the Fortieth parallel, while its northernmost extremity reaches far up toward the Forty-second, the exact distance being about 105 miles, the width being about 40 miles. The superficial area contained average within its boundaries is 3,590 square miles or 2,297,600 acres, an area so immense that a better appreciation of its dimensions is had when it is stated, that Humboldt County is three times as large as the State of Rhode Island, and about as large as the State of Connecticut. In length of coast line it leads the list of all the coast counties, possessing as it does 175 miles of water front. Included in this long line, and situated at about its centre, is found the magnificent Humboldt Bay, the largest and finest harbor on the coast next to San Francisco. It is fifteen miles in length and varies in width from three to seven miles, the total tidal area being about 50 square miles, the entrance is about one mile in width. The navigable channel at the mouth is restricted, however, to a width of a little over one quarter of a mile by breakers which put out from either shore; the depth of water in the channel at low tide is 18 feet. This contraction of the open channel at the mouth of the harbor, enforces the exercise of caution and good seamanship in making an entrance, but once in, perfect security is obtained from all winds and storms. The Government has expended, and is still expending considerable sums in improving the mouth of the harbor, and, with a little additional work, every material impediment to the future of this grand haven will be removed. Trinidad Bay, 17 miles north of Humboldt, is a small deep harbor well sheltered from all winds. Shelter Cove, at the extreme southern part of the coast line, completes the list of ports of the county. It is, however, an available port only in fair weather.

W. W. MONTAGUE & CO., IMPORTERS STOVES AND RANGES, MANUFACTURERS French Ranges. 309, 311, 313, 315 and 317 Market Street, San Francisco.

By its topographical features Humboldt County may be classed as entirely mountainous, the entire area being bisected and intersected by the numerous spurs of the Coast Range, which leave the main chain located along the eastern boundary of the county. Unlike many, and indeed a large proportion of the other mountainous portions of the State, in Humboldt no barren crests are found in even her loftiest ranges. Every peak bristles with timber and the slopes hold unlimited wealth of lumber in the gigantic forests found throughout and over all her ranges. This fact naturally causes the lumber industry to represent the one grand salient feature of the county's prosperity. Of the entire acreage of the county the timber lands take up over 1,200,000 acres, of which over 450,000 is redwood proper, with a productive capacity of over 100,000 feet per acre. The remaining timber land may be said to be fairly divided between pine, fir, spruce, cedar, madrone, black, white and live oak, and laurel. A realizing sense of the wealth contained in these enormous figures is readily obtained by the simple statement that the redwood supply of the county is greater than the entire remaining timber bodies of the States of Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin combined. Engaged in the manufacture of lumber in the county are seventeen saw mills, nearly all of which have shingle and lath mills attached, and there are six mills which are devoted exclusively to the making of shingles. The value of the lumber exported during the past year was $3,250,000, the quantity being over 70,000,000 feet. Labor in the mills and logging camps in Humboldt is munificently paid, reaching in the mills from $26 to $100 per month and found, and in the camps from $40 to $125 per month and found.

While the lumber industry is by far the predominating interest of the county, agriculture in the available portions of the county is equally remunerative. At present only about 35,000 acres are cultivated, the remaining portions aside from timber lands being devoted to stock and sheep raising. About all the farming lands at present developed, are found in the country adjacent to Arcata, on the bay for seven miles north of Eureka, and in the Eel River Valley twenty miles south of Eureka. The soil is rich and practically inexhaustible, the yield for oats being from thirty-five to ninty bushels per acre, for barley from thirty to eighty five bushels, for wheat from thirty to sixty bushels, and for potatoes from five to seven tons, the latter item—Humboldt potatoes—have for years been regarded and held as the best known to our California markets.

The moist climate prevailing along the shore always prevents a failure of crops, and whether relying on grain or fruit the Humboldt farmer is assured of a fair return for his labor, even in the seasons when other portions of the State suffer from failure in rain. The average rainfall is about 32 inches and the mean temperature varies from 40° in January to 58° in July.

The fisheries of the county are gradually growing into importance. The streams of the county from the Klamath River on the north down through the whole list which drain the county, literally swarm with salmon with the first winter rains; halibut and flounders are also taken in quantity, and the export interest in this line promises well in the future.

From the broken character of the county's surface the question of railroad communication has been one of great difficulty, and developments are as yet in their infancy; within the past year, however, the embryotic schemes which have languished for years have crystallized into something like a definite movement, and we have now the assured prospect that within the next two years, railroad connection between San Francisco and Eureka will be unbroken. At present, aside from the various lumber-transportation roads, the Arcata and Mad River, the Eureka and Trinidad, and the Eel River and Eureka Railroads deserve notice. The first named extends from Arcata to the north fork of Mad River, a distance of 12 miles, is equipped for passenger and freight traffic, and is doing a thriving business. The Eureka and Trinidad, to run between these two points, will be finished during the present year. The last, the Eel River and Eureka, is now in process of construction, twenty miles being finished and in operation to Hydesville in the Eel River Valley. It is a broad gauge, solidly constructed and equipped with first-class rolling stock. It passes through a fine agricultural country and taps several valuable and extensive timber belts.

With the continuance of these developments, and the maintenance of the activity which has marked all the business interests of the county during the past two years, Humboldt's march in the line of improvement will soon place her in the front rank of the counties of the State. Already the population has leaped from the figures of the last census, 15,511, up to about 24,000; her export trade for the past year passed the gross aggregate of $4,000,000, and engaged the cargoes of nearly 500 vessels; her lumber shipments from being, as formerly, a local trade, now seek foreign markets direct, and the ship building interest will continue to grow, until on Humboldt Bay, in some not far distant day, will be located the largest interests of this character in our country.

Arcata.

This town having post, telegraph, and express offices, is situated at the northern end of Humboldt Bay, fourteen miles distant from Eureka, by land, and seven miles by water. It is the second town in size in the county; enjoys a fine and growing trade from the large farming community in the vicinity of the town, and is the depot of supplies for the gold diggings on Klamath and Trinity Rivers.

Arcata will naturally be the seat of great activity in the organization of mining outfits during the coming year, as it will be the preferred route of parties going to the gold fields of the New River District in northern Trinity.

The location of the town is beyond question as beautiful as could be found on the bay, and fringed with the woodlauds which environ it, it presents an attractive appearance. It is prettily laid out, and substantially built. Among its business establishments are a tannery, two steam saw mills, a shingle mill, a flouring mill, and the ordinary business incident to a place of its size. It has also three churches, three public schools, and a public reading room, and a circulating library. Its hotel accomodations are good. The Union Hotel. kept by Jacob Richert being worthy of special note, The population of the town is about 1,500. Direct steamer communication is maiutained with San Francisco.

A favorite resort beautifully situated near Mad River, and surrounded by some of the most picturesque woodland and mountain scenery in Humboldt. It is within easy distance of Eureka and Arcata, being only three hours from the former place, by steamer, rail, and stage. The Arcata and Mad River Railroad will touch this place to accomodate the mills of the locality, of which there are two of large capacity. A visit to Humboldt is incomplete unless it embraces a trip to this charming place. Fish and game are in abundance.

Eureka.

This, the county seat of Humboldt and the commercial metropolis of northern California, is admirably situated on the eastern shore of Humboldt Bay, seven miles from the entrance to the harbor, and is a striking illustration of the wonderful growth of our American towns. Without any of the fictitious and ephemeral growth which the early gold excitement effected in many portions of the State, Eureka has, from an absolute wilderness, grown in the short space of 30 years to a city of between seven and eight thousand people, and every step of its progress has been marked by a conservatism which has meant permanency.

W. W. MONTAGUE & CO., Importers of SHEET IRON, 309, 311, 313, 315 and 317 Market St., S. F.

Ask your Grocer for SPERRY'S STOCKTON ROLLER FLOUR. San Francisco Office, 22 Cal. Street.

The site is an eligible one easily susceptible of drainage, and affords ample room for expansion. The city is distant from San Francisco 228 miles, with which city it is connected by steamer twice a week, and by overland stage and railroad, via. Cloverdale. The city is well laid out, with broad streets, ample wharves and water front. It is lighted with gas, and possesses an excellent system of water works. The church facilities are ample, and the various organizations are well sustained. The schools are justly the pride of the citizens, and the corps of teachers are as efficient as can be found in any city of the State.

In its newspaper advantages Eureka is represented by two bright and enterprising sheets, one the Democratic Standard (weekly) and the other the Times-Telephone (daily and weekly). They are both alive to the new era of progress which has opened up to the city within the past two years, and are quick to lend the stimulus of their columns to any project or scheme which promises either a maintenance or an acceleration of this progress.

The past year has witnessed many improvements effected and projected, prominent among which may be noted the completion of a fine business block by Captain Buhne at a cost of over $30,000, and the residence of William Carson, one of Eureka's pioneers, at a cost of $20,000, and the opening of the Eel River and Eureka Railroad as far as Hydesville. Not the least among the more recent additions to Eureka's attractions is the opening of the Western Hotel at the corner of First and D Streets with Mr. Dan Murphy as its genial host. The building is the largest and finest of its class in the county, and the long experience of its proprietor as a caterer is a guarantee that its management will equal its elegance.

In its general business facilities Eureka ranks equally with all of our California cities. Its banking facilities, mercantile establishments, planing and sawing mills, and other business facilities keep pace with the times. The public library has 2,000 volumes; and the town boasts of as fine a driving park as can be found in northern California, in the South Park Recreation Grounds one mile from town.

The most noticeable feature, however, as has been before noted, is the city's wonderful growth. It is spreading in all directions a mile from the city front back into the woods, another mile westward from the tide lands, which stretch inland from the ocean, and still another mile eastward from the marshes which fringe the bay. Within the next three years the citizens all reckon confidently on a population of at least 10,000 people.

Ferndale.

This town, situated about 20 miles south of Eureka, at the lower end of the fine agricultural valley formed by the Eel River, is the business center for the finest farming section of the county, the prolific and inexhaustible bottom lands in the neighborhood being noted for the excellence, abundance, and never-failing character of their crops. A direct line of communication with San Francisco, via Port Kenyon, by steamer, is maintained, as well as daily communication with Eureka, thus adding materially to the welfare of the community. The town is well built, and sustains its full complement of business establishments, all of which are doing a thriving trade. A good system of water works provides for the town's wants. The town sustains a newspaper, the Ferndale Enterprise, a bright and sparkling weekly, fully alive to the interests of the valley It has post office, express, and telegraphic accomodations, and a population of about 1,200.

MARIN COUNTY.

THIS County is bounded on the north by Sonoma County, on the east by San Pablo and San Francisco Bays, and on the south and west by the Pacific Ocean, and contains a superficial area of 326,000 acres.

In its topographical characteristics Marin approaches close to the category of mountainous counties, the entire peninsula embraced within the waters which encircle it on three sides being apparently a termination of one of the spurs of the Coast Range, which, coming from the north further inland, here loses itself in the ocean. The elevation, however, is not enough in any case, saving perhaps in that of Mount Tamalpais (2,800 feet), to take the lands above the pasture belt.

The principal occupation of the people is dairying, this county being better adapted for the business than any other of the State, both from its proximity to markets, and the beneficial effects of the prevailing fogs and moisture, which, driven by the westerly winds from the ocean, keep the grasses green and nutritive long after those of the more easterly counties have been dried by the summer's sun. The dairy season lasts from November until May. Pigs are also an important factor, and are in Marin really an adjunct of the dairy business, as they are fed almost exclusively on the skim milk. The average number of cows held in the county for the past three years was about 26,000; pigs, 8,000

Brickmaking on the bay shore is also a large industry, the annual product reaching about 21,000,000.

Fishing is carried on to a large extent on the ocean, as well as the bay shores.

In climate the Eastern slopes of the county are the most favored of any of the suburban localities adjoining San Francisco, being almost entirely free from the fierce winds of the lower peninsula.

Two railroads—the North Pacific Coast, and the San Francisco and North Pacific—pierce the county from south to north, which, with the excellent system of ferry steamers connecting with San Francisco from Saucelito and San Rafael, afford ample means of intercommunication.

Allen, Tuggle & Co., CABINET WOODS, Etc. 18 and 20 Spear St., San Francisco.

San Rafael.

THIS, the county seat of Marin, is a charmning little city of about 3000 inhabitants. It is beautifully located in a basin east of Mount Tamalpais and is surrounded by a low range of hills, save to the east where a clear and expansive view of the bay is had. These peculiarities in its topographical location have the effect of making San Rafael one of the most desirable of all the surburban cities and towns adjacent to San Francisco; perfect immunity from the fierce southern and western winds of the coast and an almost complete freedom from fogs being secured by the shielding protection of its surroundings.

The place is famous as a resort for invalids and during the summers is the prefered locality of many thousands for picnics. The city is lighted with gas and is supplied with water from Lagunitas Springs 7 miles distant, the system of mains and lateral pipes being complete for all parts of the city.

Ample and convenient communication with San Francisco, via the North Pacific Coast R. R. direct, and the San Francisco and North Pacific R. R. via Point Tiburon, is had at all seasons of the year, the service of both routes bring increased very materially in the summer months to accommodate the excursion travel.

There are four churches, a large public school with an attendance of about 350, and a free library. Two weekly papers are published, the "Tocsin" and the "Journal," both of which possess a good circulation. There are numerous private boarding houses and hotels, many of which possess extensive grounds and cottages attached. Chief among the hotels and worthy of special mention is the Central House kept by Mr. M. C. Dufficy. This house from its central location and ample accommodations, as well as the years of successful experience acquired by its genial host, ensures all who avail themselves of its comforts, perfect satisfaction.

NAPA COUNTY

THIS County is bounded on the north by Lake and Yolo Counties, on the east by Yolo and Solano, on the south by Solano, and on the west by Sonoma. It is irregular in shape, the greatest length from north to south being about 50 miles, and the width from east to west being about 26 miles; total area about 828 square miles.

In its topographical characteristies, Napa presents a succession of ranges and valleys which give it a semi mountainous character. Its western boundary line is one continuous line of mountains and hills lying between it and Sonoma County while the eastern boundary line separating the county from Yolo and, Solano is for the most part an elevated range, many peaks of which attain an altitude of 3,000 feet. Between these two ranges and separated by intervening ranges, are found the fertile valleys which have made Napa famous. Commencing on the western border and extending almost through the county is found the Napa Valley, 35 miles in length by an average width of two and a half. East of this, and in about the order named, are found the smaller valleys of Conn, Wooden, Chiles, Pope, Capella, and Berryessa, which together with that portion of the Soscol Valley lying in the extreme southern part comprises all of the really fertile land in the county suitable for agriculture. These valleys formerly raised immense crops, but the exhaustive system of tilling pursued has impaired their productiveness to some extent. It is, however, in its wine interest that Napa stands pre-eminent, between two and three million gallons being the annual product. In the first development of this interest some preference was given to the valleys in the planting of vines, and although the largest crops are still gathered from the valleys, yet it is found that the grapes from the hill lands make the best quality of wine.

The amount of lands now in vines in the county will probably not exceed eight square miles, while it is estimated that there are fully 250 square miles in the county adapted to their culture. The county has therefore great hopes in the future from this interest.

Use SPERRY'S STOCKTON ROLLER FLOUR. San Francisco Office, 22 California Street.

The climate of the county in the southern part is cool, being tempered by the fogs and winds of the bay; farther up in the valleys, however, the thermometer frequently reaches over 100° but the atmosphere is always dry and pure.

Its present railroad facilities are embraced in the Napa Valley Branch of the California Pacific Railroad which extends from Vallejo through Napa Valley to Calistoga in the extreme northern end. The population of the county is now estimated at 15,000.

its location, it is the center of large freight shipments, quicksilver and sulphur from the Lake County mines being hauled to this point for shipment by rail. The famous Petrified Forests are found about 5 miles from the town, while the Geysers are 26 miles distant. Stage lines radiate from Calistoga to all points in Lake County, in one direction, and in others to Knight's Landing, the Geysers, and Santa Rosa. The town sustains a good newspaper in the Calistogian (weekly), has a good town hall, three churches, and its full complement of business houses. In its hotel accommodations it ranks exceptionally well for a town of its size, the Magnolia and Cosmopolitan being especially worthy of patronage.

A post-office and mining town in the extreme northeastern part of the county, and the location of the Redington Quicksilver Mine. The town depends entirely on the mine, and, as a consequence, the practical shutting down of work about three years since almost entirely depleted the town of its people. When the mine was running it had a population of 300.

Napa City.

This, the county seat and commercial metropolis of Napa, is situated at the head of navigation on the Napa River, 37 miles from San Francisco. The location is exceptionally beautiful as well as healthy, and the city in its residence portion will compare favorably with any in the State. The most attractive feature, in an architectural point of view, is the Napa State Asylum for the insane, built at an expense of about $1,500,000. It has accommodations for 600 patients, but for the past few years has been overcrowded to such an extent that an increase of accommodation is an immediate necessity. The Court House, completed in 1879, at a cost of $70,000, is a structure worthy of the county.

Beside her ample educational facilities, provided through the medium of her public school system, Napa City supports three first-class private schools: the Napa Collegiate Institute, the Napa Ladies' Seminary, and the Oak Mound School for boys. The first named takes rank equally with our best institutions, and enjoys more than a mere local reputation and popularity.

The city has two newspapers (both daily), the Reporter and the Register, both of which are alive to the interests of the city and the valley. There are three banking institutions, several important manufacturing firms, and the ordinary complement of other business houses. Two passenger and one freight train daily are run between Napa and San Francisco. Population of Napa City is now estimated at 5,200.

private residences, the equable character of its climate and the beauty of its location having attracted to its limits for residence purposes many whose business interests were elsewhere. In its business interests and future prospects St. Helena may fairly be said to take rauk equally with any of the neighboring cities, since its one great interest, wine making, although as yet only in its infancy, is taking the town along in the march of development with strides that are scarcely to be met with in any other part of the State. At present the product of the St. Helena district reaches over 1,000,000 gallons annually, about twenty-five cellars being fairly classed as belonging to the district. In this interest a special bonded warehouse of the Internal Revenue Department has been located here.

The town is furnished with water by a system of works which secures a full supply of pure mountain water in her streets at all times. The St. Helena Star and Times, both semi-weekly publications, are bright and sparkling sheets, fully alive to the future of the district. In her other business possessions, St. Helena is up to the standard of progress her importance demands. The town has complete postal, express, and telegraphic facilities, and a population of about 2,000.

YOLO COUNTY.

This county is bounded on the north by Colusa, on the east by Sutter and Sacramento, on the south by Solano, and on the west by Napa and Lake Counties, and contains an area of 651,000 acres. Yolo is essentially an agricultural county, almost its entire expanse lying in the most fertile portion of the Sacramento Valley, and with the exception of the tule lands which border the Sacramento in the southeastern part of the county, is all susceptible of and produces where developed crops of a magnitude that compare with any county in the State, some 75,000 tons of grain being about the present annual production. Towards the west, as the foot-hills are approached, fine belts of timber are found. Some consideration has been given to irrigation and ditches already constructed that feed some 15,000 acres, with the continuance of the system perfect immunity against the contingency of dry seasons will be secured. The tule lands adjoining the river wherever reclaimed are wonderfully fertile, and much has already been done in this direction noticeably in the neighborhood of Grand Island and Sacramento Cache Creek, the outlet of Clear Lake in Lake County, entering the county at the extreme northwestern corner, pursues its course for some miles hemmed in by the rugged walls of a rocky cañon, beyond which, as the grasp of the hills upon the stream relaxes, it spreads out into the beautiful Capay Valley, which contains the best wheat lands of the State. The stream pursues a general southeasterly course through the county until it empties itself into the tule lands adjoining the Sacramento river, at about the middle of the eastern boundary.

The California Pacific Railroad and branches cross the county from Davisville to Sacramento, from Davisville to Grafton, and from Woodland to Colusa County on its route north. In the southwestern part of the county the Vaca Valley and Clear Lake Railroad has been completed and is in operation to Madison.

A good system of roads connect the various localities, over which and into the adjoining counties stage lines ply in all directions. The population of the county is now estimated at 14,000.

Black's Station.

THIS town is situated on the line of the California Pacific Railroad, ten miles northwest of Woodland. Its interests are wholly agricultural, and the place is noted for the extraordinary storage capacity of its warehouses, the ground measurement of which covers over 50,000 feet. It has post, telegraph and express offices.

Davisville

THIS, the second town in size in the county, is situated in the extreme southern part, eleven miles from Woodland. Here the northern branch of the California Pacific, leaves the main line, running north to Woodland and Grafton. The town is in the center of a large and well developed farming district, and has a large portion of northern Solano tributary to its business interests. Fruit culture in the neighborhood, has become one of the paramount industries, many large orchards being located here. From 30,000 to 35,000 tons of grain are shipped annually from this point.

The town is enjoying a fair degree of progress, has good hotel accommodations (the Lillard House and the Gafford House, being both well kept hostelries) and a full quota of mercantile and mechanical establishments. The town has complete postal, express and telegraphic facilities. Population about 700.

(Post Office Sacramento.)

THIS place was at one time the county seat, but its removal, together with the more intimate connection with Sacramento effected by the railroad and county bridges, has had the effect of entirely effacing its business interests, all the trade of the locality being transferred to the larger town.

Woodland.

THIS town, the county seat, is pleasantly situated a little southeast of the center of the county, eighteen miles from Sacramento, and eighty-two miles from San Francisco. Besides being the capital, it is also the commercial metropolis of the county, possessing as it does fine public buildings, a magnificent public square and many solid business blocks. Among its business interests may be noted flouring mills—possessing an aggregate capacity of 100 barrels of flour per day—two banks, seven hotels, three restaurants, five livery stables, six dry goods and furnishing goods stores, two furniture stores, two lumber yards, three plaiuing mills, and numerous other busiuess establishments in proportiou. In its educational interests, the city possesses, besides its finely organized public school system, an excellent iustitution for advanced education in the "Hesperian College," erected in 1861. As au additional evidence of the progressive character of the city and county, the fact that here are to be found two well supported daily journals, is deemed sufficient. These papers the Yolo Mail and the Democrat are both sparkling and energetic sheets and enjoy a good circulation.

The Woodlaud Opera House is one of the largest aud most commodious theaters iu the State. Seats 1000. Erected at a cost of $28,000. (See also Cacheville.)

THIS town, formerly known as Cacheville, was at one time the county seat. It is about five miles from Woodland to the northwest. The interests of the town are wholly agricultural, and a fair business is done; as is natural, however, its proximity to Woodland makes its subsidiary to that place in its mercantile and grain shipping trade. Population about 350.

LAKE COUNTY.

THIS county is bounded on the north by Mendocino and Colusa, on the east by Colusa and Yolo, on the south by Napa and Sonoma, and on the west by Sonoma and Mendocino counties, and contains a superficial area of about 690,000 acres.

The county lies almost entirely in the line and spurs of the Coast Range. Mount St. John, in the northern part, the highest point, being 11,000 feet above the sea. Towards the center, however, as the land falls away to the lakes, numerous valleys, of greater or less extent, are found which furnish in the aggregate from 80,000 to 100,000 acres of first-class agricultural land. A goodly portion of which is under cultivation and produces renumerative crops. Corn and potatoes being the most favored. Sheep raising as an industry also takes front rank, the extensive ranges found in the foothills and on the mountain slopes, together with the uniform mildness of the climate combining to make the Lake County wools much sought after. Hogs are also raised to a considerable extent. The large oak forests which are found in the county furnishing in their never failing crop of acorns abundance of natural food. All of the ordinary fruits also do well, and grape culture is confidently looked forward to as a source of sure wealth to the county, although as yet the developments are but slight.

But at present it is to the beauty of her system of lakes and the extraordinary number of her mineral and curative waters that Lake County is best known. Clear Lake, in the center, is a splendid body of clear, pure water, in whose placid depth swarms of pike, perch, and black fish are plainly seen in the spring and summer seasons, and the winters bring myriads of wild fowl, affording a continuous field for the sportsman all the year. Several small steamers and yachts ply upon the lake, and during the summer it presents the gala dress of an uninterrupted excursion. The Blue Lakes, several miles northeast, are three in number and are surrounded by magnificent scenery. Among its mineral springs may be specially noted, Harbin's, Saratoga, Seigler's, Highland, Bartlett's, and Hough's.

These attractions have the effect of drawing to the county annually from 15,000 to 25,000 invalids and pleasure-seekers, and constitutes a no inconsiderable item in the resources of the section. The county as yet has no railroads, but a magnificent system of county and toll roads is maintained over which numerous stage lines give easy access to all parts.

Lakeport.

COUNTY seat and postoffice. Population about 800. This is the most desirable residence town that has ever presented itself to our observation. It is situated on a beautiful slope overlooking Clear Lake at a point favorable for the view. The climate is mild and much sought for by invalids. When other parts of the interior of California are subjected to excessive heat, the climate of Lakeport is agreeable and there are no tryin8 winds. Lakeport is a very pretty town and is rapidly improving. Chief among its industries is Starr's Flouring Mill, the largest in the county, with a capacity of 40 barrels in 12 hours. There are three fine hotels with first-class accommodations, viz., Mound Cottage Hotel, which sits on rising ground overlooking Clear Lake, Greene's Hotel and stage office, and Mantz House.

Lower Lake.

THIS town is situated about 2 miles from the southern end of Clear Lake, and is a place of considerable trade. It is distant from Calistoga 30 miles, and is most generally reached by that route, although some considerable travel goes in from Woodland in Yolo County, that route requiring nearly 70 miles of staging. There are several fine valleys in the neighborhood, which furnish considerable trade to the town. The town has a first class hotel, in the Cosmopolitan, making a stay here one of pleasure to tourists visiting the county. The Lower Lake Bulletin published here is a lively little journal and well supported. The place has post and express offices, and a population of about 400.

SOLANO COUNTY.

THIS county is bounded on the north by Yolo, on the east by Yolo and Sacramento, on the south by Contra Costa, and on the west by Napa counties.

Its boundaries are for the most part naturally defined. The Rio de Los Putos Creek on the north, the Sacramento River, Suisun and San Pablo Bays on the east and south, and the Soscol Hills and Blue Mountains on the west, making definite lines of enclosure, the total area of the county being about 600,000 acres.

The resources of the county are almost entirely agricultural; the lands, with the exception of a belt of swamp land adjoining the Sacramento River in the eastern and southern part of the county, being all the best quality of grain lands. Of these swamp lands about one-third has been reclaimed making them the most fertile of all the lands of the county.

The principal exports of the county are grain, wool and live stock, hay, fruits of all kinds, butter, cheese, and vegetables are also sources of considerable revenue. The early vegetables and fruit from Solano are almost always the first to reach the San Francisco market every year. The county is well drained, aside from the swamp lands, which fact, in connection with the climatic influences of the coast breezes, make it remarkably healthy.

The railroad developments of the county are included in the California Pacific running from the southwest to the northeast the entire length of the county; the Benicia branch from Fairfield to Benicia and the Vaca Valley and Clear Lake which leaves the California Pacific at Elmira, running thence north into Yolo County.

The population of the county is now about 22,000.

Benicia.

THIS town, the second in size in the county, has historic as well as commercial prominence in the State. Laid out in 1847, receiving its name from the wife of the old pioneer, General Vallejo, it for a long time was in the lists as a candidate for the State capitol, and for one session, that of 1853, enjoyed that transitory honor. For eight years it was the county seat, the removal to Fairfield being determined upon for the purpose only of securing a more central location. The town is well built and in its business interests received a considerable stimulus in the opening of the new branch of the California Pacific Railroad from Suisun the entire through traffic of the line being now sent via Benicia. The transfer service over Carquinez Straits being effected on the largest railroad ferry boat in the world. The city has five private educational institutions besides a well organized system of public schools. Its hotel accommodations are equal to the average, although the Palace Hotel on First Street conducted by Mr. Fred Hund deserves to be classed above the average, Here are located also capacious military barracks and the United States Arsenal, the only one on the Pacific Coast. The town has complete railroad, postal, express, and telegraphic connections and a population of about 1800.

Fairfield.

THIS town, the county seat of Solano, is situated 46 miles from San Francisco on the California Pacific Railroad. It is pleasantly laid out, but aside from the importance it obtains from its being the capitol of the county it would be more properly classed as a residence town, since a considerable portion of its tributary business is taken by Suisun. It has complete postal, telegraph, and express connections and a population of about 900.

Vallejo.

THIS, the largest city of the county, is situated in the extreme southwestern part and is the southern terminus of the Napa Valley branch of the California Pacific Railroad. It has many natural advantages all of which conspire to advance its material interests. Deep water ships load directly at this point, large numbers of cargoes being annually taken. Aside from the ordinary business characteristics found in cities of its size, the location at Mare Island of the United States Navy Yard is to Vallejo a feature of great importance, as it is fair to say that much over half of Vallejo's material prosperity depends on it. The Navy Yard employs from 500 to 1200 men. Here also is found the Orphans' Home erected and maintained under the auspices of the Good Templars, which in its workings has proven a noble and comprehensive charity. Ample and frequent communications with San Francisco by ferry service. The population is about 6000.

MENDOCINO COUNTY.

THIS county, lying along the northern coast, is bounded on the north by Humboldt and Trinity Counties, on the east by Colusa and Lake, on the south by Sonoma, and on the west by the Pacific Ocean; and contains an area of 3816 square miles.

The nature of the country is extremely mountainous, the Coast Range occupying its entire length and rising in its boundaries into some of its highest summits. Many streams rising in the heights flow into the ocean furnishing some tolerable harbors; although none are sufficiently land-locked as to be classed as safe in rough weather.

The resources of the county are varied, although up to the present time no great amount of development has been made except in the lumbering and grazing interests. Great forests of redwood and fir are found along the entire coast and covering almost the entire area of the county. The annual lumber production at present exceeds 50,000,000 feet and 15,000,000 shingles. While the grazing interest is indicated in the statement that there are over 300,000 sheep held in the county.

The county, however, only waits the extension to her limits of the railroad system which has done so much for other portions of the State, to join with and keep pace in the march of development. The present population is about 13,000.

A post, express and telegraph office, the county seat, and one of the oldest towns in the State. Geographically, it is in the center of the county, thus making it the most desirable for the honor it bears. It is a prosperous town of about 1,500 inhabitants, well built and pleasantly located in the heart of a rich agricultural and pastoral region, the productions of which contribute largely towards swelling the exports of the State. It is also the distributing point of mail matter for a large section of the county. Altitude about 800 feet. The Court House and Jail, built in 1872, cost $40,000. It has six churches and excellent schools. The central point of J. L. Sanderson & Co.'s Stage Lines to Eureka, Cloverdale, Mendocino City, Lakeport, Upper Lake, Bartlett Springs, etc. There are a number of springs, both hot and cold, possessing medicinal properties that are highly prized by invalids. The hotel accommodations are excellent, the Palace Hotel kept by Mr. W. A. Hagans being worthy of special mention. The Ukiah House, the other leading hotel of the county seat, is kept by Mr. W. A. Hagans, an old and experienced caterer.

SONOMA COUNTY.

THIS County is bounded on the north by Mendocino County, on the east by Lake and Napa Counties, on the south by the San Pablo Bay and Marin County, and on the west by the Pacific Ocean, and contains an area of 960,000 acres.

In its topographical formation Sonoma shows a variety of valleys, separated by ranges of mountains and hills, running generally from southeast to northwest. The valleys, so formed, vary very materially, not only in extent but in climatic conditions as well. They are uniformly well watered, the average amount of rainfall being at least one-quarter more than in San Francisco, the rainy season opening sooner and closing later as a rule. The principal valley of the county runs through its entire length, being about fifty miles in length by from three to fifteen miles in width and encloses the great agricultural belt of the county. On the coast proper the famous dairy region of the county is found, the moisture laden breezes from the sea being sufficient to ensure perfect freshness of grasses during the entire year.

The one principal river of the county—Russian—enters Sonoma from the north and flows in a general southeasterly direction for some twenty-five miles when it turns sharply to the west and finds its way through the coast hills to the ocean.

In the northern part of the county are found the great redwood forests which have made Sonoma famous. Immense wealth of timber has already been made from their limits, but the supply is so large that, as compared with the amount still standing, the district may be fairly said to have only been tapped.

Among its varied productions, taking rank with the most valuable, and, in fact, the one great industry for which Sonoma is best known throughout the whole United States is its wine interest. The annual production exceeds 2,500,000 gallons. The present development is almost entirely restricted to the valley of Sonoma in the southeastern part of the county, which valley is wholly devoted to viticultural interests, and is the pioneer locality of the State in the creation of our wine industry. The planting of the famous "Rhinefarm," owned by Messrs. J. Gundlach & Co., the largest and most important vineyard of the section, dating back as far as 1858.

Use SPERRY'S STOCKTON ROLLER FLOUR. San Francisco Office, 22 California Street.

In climate Sonoma is exceedingly healthful and temperate, which fact, with the many mineral springs in the northern part, make quite a desirable health restoring section.

The county has three railroads: the San Francisco and North Pacific, running from south to north through the entire length of the county, having for its northern terminus Cloverdale with a branch from Fulton to Guerneville; the North Pacific Coast, in the southwestern portion, running to Duncan's Mills; and the Sonoma Valley Railroad, running through Sonoma Valley to Glen Ellen, its present northern terminus.

In wealth and population Sonoma ranks as the sixth of the State. The total valuation of the county being not less than $20,000,000, with a population of fully 30,000.

Cloverdale.

THIS town, in the extreme northern part of the county, thirty-two miles from Santa Rosa, is the present northern terminus of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad. Shipments from Mendocino and a great part of Lake County concentrate here, making the point one of great business activity. Daily stage lines leave here for Eureka, and various points in Lake County. The export of wool reaches fully 1,500,000 pounds annually, and hops 500,000 pounds. The latter product being cultivated with great success in the Russian River Valley.

The town has post, express, and telegraph offices; sustains a wide-awake newspaper in the "Pacific Sentinel," weekly; has many important business establishments, and is well provided in the way of hotel accommodations. The Cloverdale Union, and American being all well worthy of patronage. Population about 1,000.

Healdsburg.

THIS town, the largest in northern Sonoma, and the third in size in the county, is situated near the Russian River, about the center of the valley. It is located on a rise, about forty feet above the river at low water, and possesses extraordinary beauty in its surroundings. It is surrounded by a thriving and fertile agricultural country, carries on a well sustained business in all mercantile lines, and is annually growing into larger and larger proportions.

The town has a bank, a live and wide awake weekly newspaper—the Healdsburg Flag-Enterprise, a college, ample public school facilities, several churches;

THIS, the second town of the county, is situated at the head of a navigable estuary, known as Petaluma Creek, which reaches inland a distance of 15 miles from the bay. The total distance from San Francisco is forty-two miles. The great advantage of this location, being connected, both by rail and water, with San Francisco, together with a surrounding back country of great extent and richness, early gave a great impulse to this section of country. The city was incorporated in 1858. It has perfect drainage, streets are well graded, and its architectural construction, both as regards business blocks and private dwellings, will compare favorably with towns of greater pretensions. Its schools, societies, churches, and news papers are of a superior class, and well supported.

The city also ranks as one of the first in the State as an export point for dairy produce. It has complete post, express and telegraph accommodations, and a population of over 5,000.

FIREMANS FUND INSURANCE CO.

OF CALIFORNIA

ASSETS, - - - - - -	$1,520,895
Losses Paid in 22 Years. - - -	6,000,000

The business of the FIREMANS FUND is derived from about FIFTEEN HUNDRED agencies throughout the United States, thus securing a judicious scattering of its risks. Its popularity at home is attested by the fact that its Pacific Coast Premiums are larger than those of any other Company, American or Foreign, while its conservatism is shown by the care with which it avoids heavy concentration of risks, it having only about ONE-THIRD as much at risk in San Francisco for each dollar of assets as the average of our other Home Companies, and the success of its management is proven by its constant growth, it now having the LARGEST BUSINESS, the LARGEST ASSETS and the LARGEST NET SURPLUS of all the Pacific Coast Companies.

D. J. STAPLES, President. — WILLIAM J. DUTTON, Secretary.

ALPHEUS BULL, Vice-President. — E. W. CARPENTER, Ass't Secretary.

Santa Rosa.

THE city of Santa Rosa, the county seat of Sonoma, is pleasantly situated on both sides of Santa Rosa Creek, fifty three miles from San Francisco, with which place perfect railroad connection is had, via. the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad.

The city is about the middle of that part of the great central valley of the county, known as Santa Rosa Valley, being sixteen miles north of Petaluma, and sixteen miles south of Healdsburg, and is surrounded by some of the most productive farms of the State as well as by an intelligent and prosperous farming community. The wine product of Santa Rosa township and its tributary valleys is much over 500,000 gallons annually, and in the city is found one of the largest wineries. The city is well lighted, and is abundantly supplied with water from a capacious reservoir, a few miles east of the city. It has two colleges, ample public schools, church edifices and public buildings.

The Santa Rosa Republican and Sonoma Democrat," both daily and weekly papers published, are in themselves ample evidence of the progressive character of the community they represent, while its powers of hospitality are amply provided for in its numerous hotels. Its two leading hotels, the Occidental and Grand, equalling any in the State. The latter kept by Mr. Philip Morsehead, being especially worthy of patronage.

The population of the city is fully 6,000.

Sonoma.

This town, the oldest in the county, is located in the extreme southeastern part of the county, in the center of Sonoma Valley, and is the business center for one of the richest wine growing districts of the State. Here on a beautiful hillside, sloping up from the Napa County road, within one mile from town, is situated J. Gundlach's celebrated vineyard, Rhine Farm, one of the pioneer estates of the county, comprising 250 acres of the purest vineyard land of this section. It was planted as early as 1858, and has continued ever since to remain in a high state of cultivation. Location and soil are especially adapted for the production of choice white wines and the firm of J. Gundlach & Co., in San Francisco, has established a well earned reputation for the high quality of these products all over the United States.

The town is situated on the Sonoma Valley Railroad, forty-one miles from San Francisco, and has complete postal, express and telegraphic communications. Population about 700.
